Open Forum – We will start with a presentation by Shri Sharad Jugal who will be visiting us from Wisconsin (He used to live in the Cherry Hill area many years ago). His short presentation "A Sunami in my life: beginning of belief in God" deals with a 1975 series of challenging situations and inexplicable helping hands from all different directions that saved his 9yr. old son from the jaws of Leukemia. We will plenty of time for others to share briefly any significant experiences in India, in other countries, or in the United States. Significant experiences can include inter-cultural, spiritual, emotional, and social experiences. These can be hilarious or life-altering experiences.

May I also invite all members to email me one photograph of their younger years (childhood, their wedding, or later) by September 20. I will put them together in a slide show and let other members guess who that person in the photograph is.

Your RSVP to the invite is important. Thank you !

Om Namó Bhagavaté Vasudevaya Namah

Remember, our Vedic Rishis words, "All be Happy and be Prosperous". If maximum numbers of people in a society (city, state, or country) are happy, then that society is happy and prosperous. One easy way is to chant Sri Vishnu Sahasranama and do good work. Experience has shown that an individual chanting VSN alone makes him/her calm and happy. If this chanting is done as a part of a Satsang, then one feels his/her happiness elevated to another level, and the satsang group feels very positive and happy (multiplying effect). By spreading the word, collectively we all can do Sri Vishnu Sahasranama chanting across the Globe for world harmony and peace. In this connection, on Oct 17, 2015, we all get a chance to participate in the Same Time Satsang across different countries in the world.

Thanks for your time and help, and please spread the word.

Be well, do good work, and extend a helping hand.

Sarvé jaynaa sukhino bhavanthu, Samasta summangalani santhu. With the blessings of Sri Lord Venkateswara. We will be having our program at 9:30 on Saturday October 17 in our mandir. Please join us!

From Me to You

Pranams!

The Bhagavad Gita says: "The good will never perish; evil can never exist". Evil doesn't exist as a separate entity; it has only a relative existence. Just as darkness does not have an existence, it is only a lack of light. Likewise, evil is simply a lack of goodness. This approach avoids the dilemma about evil and the omnipresence of God. Most religions are of the view that God is Omnipresent, Omnipotent and Omniscient. If God is Omnipresent, then there is no place for evil to exist outside God. If one recognizes a separate existence for evil, then one has to forgo God's Omnipresence. If evil is an external power, then God is not Omnipotent. If He is not Omnipresent and Omnipotent, He can't be Omniscient. God loses his essential qualifications to be God if evil exists as a separate force.

Vedanta holds that evil cannot exist outside God, because God is the material cause of the universe. The example is of the spider weaving its web from its saliva. The spider, the cause, is not different from its web, the effect. Vedanta discards a separate existence for evil and considers evil to be only a relative viewpoint. For example, poison is generally considered to be bad, but it is also good in a certain context: many life-saving drugs are poisons. Likewise, vitamins may be good, even lifesaving, but consumed in excess they can be fatal.

Hence good and evil are only relative. Everything is an appearance, including evil. Advaita philosophy is close to quantum physics. For both systems, the basic proposition is the same: that the universe is made up of one substance. Vedanta says that God is energy and intelligence, and that the world, which is matter, is nothing but a part of God. Everything is relative. Whether it is a poisonous metal such as mercury or lead, or a vitamin, the scientist does not assign any predetermined 'moral' value to it. He just knows them as they are; that they are useful in different places for different purposes. Usage alone makes something good or bad. Therefore, Vedanta's approach to evil, as well as its concept of divinity, is consistent with scientific thought.

Let us try to be true Vedantins and view our Mandir (and ourselves) as part of this supreme, and take proper care as we would do to ourselves.

Truly,
Ramesh Viswanathan
