Dear parents, grand parents, children and friends,

Welcome! welcome to Bal Vihar 2013-14, yet another session of learning, sharing and enjoying our Vedic heritage. In 30 years of my Vedanta studies, the knowledge that I received has never ceased to astonish me. It has always left me in awe of our Rishis who discovered so perfectly that this creation, including every one of us, is non-separate from God. It gave us freedom to worship and to love all beings as creation of God. Actually, as my guru Pujya Swami Dayananda says, there is nothing but God. Besides the awe inspiring feeling, I feel how blessed I am to be born in this tradition. How profound the Vedic knowledge, prayers, mantras and our epics are that it continue to inspire you to live the life to its fullest. That profound knowledge through simple stories is taught to our Bal Vihar children. In addition, they discover the sense of pride, love for God and the deities we worship, along with the joy of celebrating festivities with friends and families! Bal Vihar is an Yagna and we all participate in, to keep this priceless knowledge and traditions going! Please, join our Team of volunteers!

In today's global culture, a child can be lost. But having lived in the US for 43 years, I know that one can never shed one's identity she or he is born with. One can become even the president of USA but still his/her background and connections to race or birth will always remain an integral part of who he or she is. That's why giving our children the positive identity they are born with, is very important. Bal Vihar has grown into a big family and we owe it to my predecessors and also to many volunteers who work and teach tirelessly to keep the program running smooth.

I truly hope you register your children from ages 4-12 or from grade Pre KG - 7th grade. Sooner you do it the easier it will be for us to organize classes and assign teachers. I hope to see you on Sept. 8th, our first day of Bal Vihar, at Cherokee High School in Marlton at 10:00 AM. Bappa Moriya Re! Children will chant to begin their auspicious studies. We will also commemorate Sept 11, 2001 heroes by honoring our local fire fighters with God bless America!

Hari Om!

Director, ITA Bal Vihar

Role of Hindu Temples in USA

ABCD. No, I am not referring to the alphabet, but rather the acronym used for an Indian like me: American Born Confused Desi.

My father came here with two suitcases, one hundred dollars, and infinite dreams. He built his goals, aspirations and family on Hindu ideals and tried to immerse his children in the culture that he had left behind years ago. But to a first generation Indian residing in America, it can be incredibly challenging to establish one's identity.

This is where Hindu Temples come into play as they imbibe the literal meaning of the proverb "it takes a village to raise a child." In the absence of familial and cultural infrastructure a temple becomes that village.

It was not until I went to the temple that I began grasping the meaning of Hinduism. It was at the temple where I learned about the importance of Shiva's matted hair, the inherent power of shlokas and the significance of various rituals that otherwise did not impact me. By celebrating various festivals with children from similar background I found a sense of belonging which helped me assimilate as a Hindu.

My bi-weekly trip to Sunday classes (Bal- Vihar) for nearly 9 years helped me gain a better perspective towards my religion and prepared me to answer questions by my non-Hindu friends with confidence. I took the lessons learned at the temple and reinforced at home to merge my Hindu life with my "American" life. By tying together both halves of my life, I started to feel comfortable in my community. I realized that my parents with the support of temple instilled in me the core values which enable me to recognize and appreciate my roots.

Hindu temples in America are the focal point for cultural and religious awareness. They play a vital role in helping new generations find their identity in society. Temples allow people to ask constructive questions about their tradition, and thus develop new ways of thinking about it. They provide clear explanations of practices, beliefs, and traditions and help apply Hindu ideals to the American context, to understand that while the problems encountered here may be American, solutions can be developed consistent with Hindu values. Temples help us integrate while keeping us grounded to the life our parents had lived.

Today, I know who I am: an American proud of my roots. Ultimately the biggest role for Hindu temples across America is to redefine ABCD to American Born Content Desi by being the village that is needed to raise a Hindu child in America.

Annual Pran-Pratishtha Mahotsav

Our Temple Idols were consecrated with Pran-Pratishtha ceremonies nearly 28 years ago. The Temple has been celebrating this event every year to commemorate the occasion by a special Puja, attended and participated by many devotees from our community. This year we plan to celebrate this event by a special Puja on September 15, 2013.

The special Puja will commence at 9:00 AM sharp in the main hall - upstairs in the front of our deities. At the conclusion of Puja of all deities (estimated to be at around Noon), all participants will share Falahar and Fasting food in the tent in the Temple's Parking Lot. Homa/Havan ceremony will commence at around 1:00 PM in the Tent and will conclude at around 4:00 PM. While most of the Puja Samagri (Items) will be provided, all Puja participants are requested to bring their own Kalash (Water Pot) and a Stainless Steel Thali (Dish).

At the conclusion of Havan ceremony, everyone is requested to go back upstairs for melodious and devotional Bhajan program by Chadan Modi and his group. The Mahotsav will culminate with Maha Aarti of all deities followed by Dinner downstairs.

The Temple administration has humbly requested the Puja participants to make a modest donation of $51 per couple to help defray the cost of supporting this event. All devotees, whether participating in Puja or not, are also requested to make donation of their choice to support such worthy cause.

The schedule of events for this Mahotsav is shown below:

8:30 - 8:45 AM - Arrive at the Temple

9:00 AM - 12:00 Noon - Puja - Main Hall Upstairs

12:00 Noon - 1:00 PM - Falahar/Fasting food - Inside the Tent in the Parking Lot

1:00 - 4:00 PM - Havan - Inside the Tent in the Parking Lot

4:00 -6:00 PM - Bhajans by Chandan Modi and group in the Main Hall Upstairs

6:00 PM - Aarti (Upstairs), followed by Dinner Downstairs/Tent area

Satyanarayan Puja and Sunderkand Path

We have been having Satyanarayan Puja every full moon day at the Temple. We would like to thank all friends and family who are joining us for the puja. We would like to thank Indian Villa who will sponsor Maha Prasad for all upcoming Satyanarayan Poojas.

We have Sunderkand path every 3rd Saturday. It is a real pleasure to read the Sunderkand Path together with friends and family. Our thanks to Gagan Palace for sponsoring the Maha Prasad for all Sunderkand Paths.

Please join us for the above events and feel the difference. It will be a pleasure to see more children participating and getting the Blessings.
